This book contains the facts, who, where, when, but not the story of our family. If you can add to our history or have an anecdote to tell, then please share it and help make our story come alive. Even little things, like your cousin the fisherman who didn't eat fish, will make our story more personal. If you can add to our story, please contact me! I hope to have at least a photo of everyone who is here. It is amazing how often there is a close resemblance for relatives separated by generations.

Introduction

The following pages list data for all known family members as of 28th November 2020.

Each immediate family is presented in their own section that contains a graphical family tree as well as a description with information about each referenced person and their children. The child section provides information about the children of the preceding couple. When a child has offspring of their own this is presented in a separate family section for that child. In this case a '+' is used to denote that an individual will appear later in the book as a parent with his/her own children and there is a link to the appropriate family reference number. For children with partners but no offspring the partner data is given with the reference family. Roman numerals, followed by a period, are used to indicate the birth order.

In the chapter titled "Family of the Starting Person" the ancestors of Eleazar Sears are presented in a kind of enhanced Pedigree Chart which displays the graphic representation of their direct-line ancestors and the children of the couple. This chapter contains information about the couple whose relatives are listed in the later chapters.

The chapter titled "Families of his Ancestors" provides details (as known as of the publication date) for the relatives of Eleazar Sears. There is a chapter for each generation. Relatives are listed in the order of the nearness of their relationship.

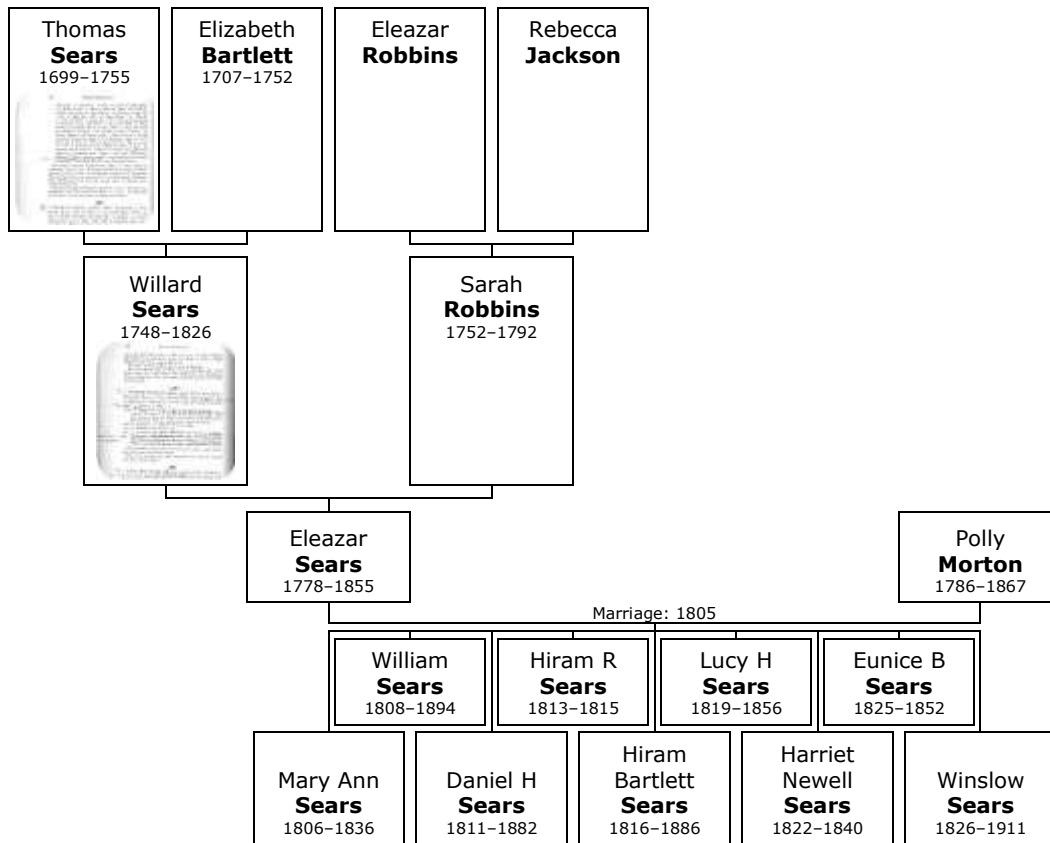

Sources for the information provided are given in the footnotes.

This document reports the details of 246 individuals, of whom 118 are male and 128 are female. Of the 167 individuals with recorded birth and death dates, the average lifespan was 55.74 years. Of these, 84 males averaged 57.18 years, and 83 females averaged 54.29 years. The longest living male was Winslow Herbert Sears (1868–1965), who died aged 97. The longest living female was Sarah Elizabeth Sears (1890–1994), who died aged 104.

!Colonel John Fellows- Regiment. Colonel John Fellows' Minute Men's Regiment 1775. 8th Regiment Army of the United Colonies 1775.- by Frank A. Gardner, M.D. [The Massachusetts Magazine, July, 1909, 2:3, p. 141-161]. The Muster Rolls Except for the rolls of eight companies which are only available in the original, the muster rolls which are the basis of the data were studied on microfilm at the Archives. They are in relatively good condition and, although some individuals' names are difficult to decipher, generally easy to read. They are kept largely in three volumes-XI, XII, and XIII-of the Revolutionary Rolls and are arranged in rough alphabetical order under the captain of the company's name. The eight companies' rolls which are found in other volumes are in volumes XIV to XVII and XX. How complete are the muster rolls? There are two levels at which to look at this problem. First, a few individual rolls have been damaged over time so that not all the names have been preserved. In some cases the edges of the roll have decayed so that first names written close to the edge, are often unreadable. In other cases the bottom portion of the roll has worn off so that the names of some privates have been lost. The ink has faded on some rolls making reading difficult, and in two of the 441 companies' rolls, it has faded to the point of illegibility. Thus, the number of companies used in most of the analysis is 439. If the loss from decay has had any effect, it would be in the count of company size in List One rather than in the listing of officers in List Two. But the number lost appears to be so small that any difference in the figures from the original is negligible. Second, how complete are the rolls in the larger sense of the number of companies that marched in response to the Lexington Alarm. This is more difficult to determine. Some of the most important participants in the event are not included in the data. Captain John Parker's name is not on the lists. The first activity for which an extant muster roll was filed by Parker, listed in Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors, is for service during the siege: "John Parker. Captain in Command of a Detachment from Lexington militia Company; service, 5 days; detachment reported on command from May 6 to May 10, 1775, by order of the Committee of Safety."<sup>54</sup> Likewise, the Concord companies under Captains David Brown, Charles Miles, and Nathan Barrett are not represented. Nor are those of Jonathan Wilson of Bedford, Isaac Davis of Acton (who was killed at Concord), and John Brooks of Reading.<sup>55</sup> These are significant gaps. One explanation for the absence of muster rolls of these companies is that the towns themselves paid their militiamen.<sup>56</sup> Although this is surely possible, it is difficult to imagine why the towns would do so, since the Provincial Congress had authorized payment. Would local pride be carried to such an extent? Another possible explanation is that some companies did not file muster rolls. This does not seem any more likely, however, for pecuniary reasons. Since the pay of their men was at stake, there was great incentive for captains to complete and file the muster rolls. A captain who was slow about completing his roll was undoubtedly prodded by his men until he did so. Thus, financial incentive tends to work toward the completeness of the data.<sup>57</sup> The most obvious explanation of the gaps is simply loss of the material through the years before it was lodged in the Archives. The completeness of the data can, perhaps, only be answered by the coordinated efforts of local historians. Internal evidence indicates, however, that it is nearly complete. For instance, one company under Asa Whitcomb noted on its muster roll that the colonel had thirteen companies under him, and data for eleven is available. Therefore, either the two remaining companies did not march, marched and filed a roll but did not give the name of their colonel (many did not), marched but did not file a roll, or marched and filed a roll which is not extant. Considering all these possibilities, eleven out of thirteen is a high percentage. Although the lists presented here are not complete, based as they are on the muster rolls in the Archives, and although local researchers will discover gaps immediately, the data is nearly complete. There is much information given on the muster rolls. Typically, across the top of the paper is written an introduction to the roll which gives the captain's (or other commanding officer's) name, the date marched, and the reason for marching. Some rolls also give the name of the colonel of the regiment to which the company belonged and others give the place of rendezvous as well. The body of the roll consists of columns listing the men's names and towns, the date marched (if not given in the introduction), the days in service, the miles traveled in the round trip, the pay for days in service, the pay for travel, and the total pay. The reason for filing the muster rolls was to receive pay from the colony for the men. Chapter 370 of the Resolves of the Provincial Congress, entitled "Resolves providing pay for the militia who came on the alarm at Lexington," was passed November 9, 1775, and it fixed the rates of pay and the process by which it could be received. All those who were in command of a company were directed to make up a Roll of the Travel, and Service of himself, and the said Men under his Command who did not enlist into the Colony Army, and therein exhibit the Number of miles which each Man Travelled from, and to his Home at one penny per mile for the Expence of travelling; and also the Time which each man was in Service, computing from the Time he left Home to the Time he left the place of Rendezvous; and also allowing one Day for each Twenty Miles from said place of Rendezvous to his Home, and with Regard to such Men as Marched as aforesaid and enlisted into) the Army, each Captain, or other Officer as aforesaid is respectively directed to exhibit in his Roll the Time of such Mens Service, computing from the Time they left their respective Homes to the Time they enlisted into said Army without exhibiting their Travel as that is already order'd to be inserted to in the Rolls, which the Officers under whom such men enlisted are directed to make up, and return. 62 The pay scale passed in the November 9 resolution was: 64 Captain £6.00 per lunar month Lieutenant, 1st 4.00 Lieutenant, 2nd 3.10 Ensign 3.10 Sergeant 2.80 Corporal 2.40 Fife and Drum 2.40 Private 2.00 Samuel Adams, Truro.
